COMMENTS

On Thursday, April 4, 2024, Speaker Rivas joined Governor Newsom and Senate President pro Tempore McGuire to announced an Early Action agreement to adopt approximately $17.3 billion in budget solutions. The Early Action package includes reducing funds that were previously appropriated, and spending solutions and statutory changes that will be reflected in the 2024 budget package in June. This bill specifically includes $1.6 billion in solutions that change spending in the 2023 Budget Act that adopted early, to secure these savings. After this bill's adoption, the Department of Finance will issue a letter to articulate the remaining solutions that will need to be included in the 2024 budget package as well to achieve the fully projected $17.3 billion in savings. The total Early Action package contains $3.6 billion in reductions (primarily to one-time funding), $5.2 billion in revenue and borrowing, $5.2 billion in delays and deferrals, and $3.4 billion in shifts of costs from the general fund to other state funds.

While the Early Action package makes meaningful and significant progress to addressing the state's projected deficit, the state will continue to face a significant budget deficit that will require further action in June to render a balance budget for the 2024-25 fiscal year. As such, this bill contains an important provision to empower the Director of Finance to freeze spending in the 2021, 2022, and 2023. This provision will preserve options for additional budget solutions the Assembly can consider during the next two months.

According to the Author

This bill amends the 2022 and 2023 budget act, such a bill is sometimes referred to as a "Budget Bill Junior" because of its smaller size compared to the original budget bill for the fiscal year. In addition to adopting the Early Action package, this bill makes various technical changes to prior year budget bills and includes $61.3 million on new funding for unexpected state costs associated with floor and storm repair damage to state facilities and urgent fruit fly infestation prevention efforts undertaken during this fiscal year.
